

Harvest Is Now Nearly Completed

The harvest in this district is by this time practically completed and the hum of threshing machines is to be heard in all parts of the district this week. The crop generally, is turning out better than was expected earlier on.

A gentleman who has travelled extensively over the province during the summer and who made a tour of the district last week, states that the crops here were considerably the best he had seen anywhere in his travels.

Considerable grain is being hauled to the elevators and operators state that most of the wheat is making the higher grades.

Barn Burns In East Didsbury

On Tuesday afternoon fire broke out in the barn of Mr. A. Neufeldt in East Didsbury. The fire had got such a hold before the fire brigade reached the scene, that it was impossible to save the building but the efforts of the men prevented the fire from spreading to the other buildings near by. A Chevrolet sedan in a shed attached to the barn was totally destroyed. The building was covered by insurance but there was no insurance on the car. It is thought that the fire was started by children playing with matches.

Mistakes

Glancing through a magazine recently the writer's attention was attracted by an article bearing the same title as appears at the heading of this column, "Mistakes." It was a short article, but two paragraphs in it stood out as important and worth-while,—worth passing on for the consideration of those who read this column from week to week.

After reciting mistakes made by "Great Men of Business," and the different ways in which they react to them, the article in question offered comment:

"Looking back over history, it would seem that mistakes, of themselves, are comparatively unimportant. All men make them. The important thing is how a man acts afterwards."

There is sound philosophy in that observation. It is deserving of more than passing attention.

All people make mistakes. Not one of us is infallible. The real test is: Do we profit by them? Do we use them as stepping stones to real achievements; to the winning of success? Or are we embittered by them; discouraged; inclined to give up and let go?

When a business man makes a mistake, jeopardizes, even loses, the savings and accumulations of a life time, and then begins to think of throwing up the sponge, contemplates suicide, or some other rash act, it is a confession that he was not really a big man after all; that he is lacking in stamina, will-power and true courage.

Experience is a hard taskmaster, a bitter teacher, but—it is a teacher, and a good one at that, because it is through experience that we do learn.

All men make mistakes, big men as well as little men. Nor is it individuals alone who make them. Governments make them, communities make them, nations make them. They must pay for their mistakes, but they can also profit from them.

One of the mistakes of this present age is to confuse bigness with greatness, to confuse quantity with quality. Next year the census of Canada will be taken, and already communities are anxiously awaiting the figures to ascertain to how large an extent they have grown in population, each town and city hoping they have outstripped their rivals. But how many have been giving serious consideration during the past ten years to the quality, rather than the quantity of their citizenship? The United States census has just been completed, and we find some of their larger cities, while boasting of their growth in size, seriously regretting that they were not smaller by some thousands of criminals and others of an undesirable class. In their ambition to become big and bigger they have made the mistake of ignoring the quality of their citizenship, and neglected those social provisions which would make their communities big in the truest, highest sense.

It is not the manufacturer who, through mass production, is turning out an enormous volume of products who is the truly successful man and a benefit to his country; the really successful man is he who is producing quality products. Nor is it the farmer who is operating several sections of land in a more or less indifferent way who, in the long run, will prove successful; it is the farmer who is farming intelligently, striving to raise the best quality of grain, the best grade of stock, poultry and dairy products, with trees and flower and vegetable gardens, who is establishing a real home, making a lasting contribution to his country, and a success in his life work.

But to return to our theme, "Mistakes." All men make them. Do not be discouraged by yours. Remember, the important thing is how a man acts afterwards.

This is a comforting thought. You can retrieve your mistakes. If you had always been right during the past five or ten years you might be much better off financially today than you are. But you have those experiences to guide you now, and you can profit from them if you will.

But, and here let us quote the second outstanding paragraph in the magazine article to which reference has been made. It reads:

"Don't make the most serious mistake of all, that is to think about your mistakes."

Forget them, except to profit by them. Don't brood over them; don't let them discourage or embitter you; don't weaken; don't regard them as irretrievable disasters. Be up and doing; forget them; use them to rise to greater heights and a larger success.

Would Deport Communists

U.S. Congress Is Urged To Take Necessary Steps

Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., in a radio address from New York, urged that congress take appropriate steps to deport all alien agitators and Communists affiliated with the Third International.

"We have tolerated them and their criminal activities too long," he said. "Let them go forth, or be deported back to their native land."

Congressman Fish, who is chairman of the special committee investigating Communist propaganda in the United States, asserted that what the Communist leaders do in Russia is solely the business of the Russian welfare.

"What the emissaries of the Soviets do in the United States of America, however, is our business," he added.

Women For Scotland Yard

Scotland Yard will employ women of super mentality to assist the "Big Five" in their efforts to solve crime. At first only three will be utilized to probe mysteries mainly incidental to the activities of the female crook, and if their work is successful a squad of fair detectives will be organized.

Elevator Contract Is Let

A contract for the excavation and pile foundation work for the proposed government 1,000,000-bushel capacity grain elevator to be built at Lethbridge, Alberta, has been let by the governor-in-council. The Nelson River Construction Company at Winnipeg, was the successful tenderer, with the lowest bid of $62,292.

Time Element In Cancer

Different Periods Of Life Have Bearing On the Trouble

A curious time element in cancer is described by Sir George Lenthal Cheatle, British cancer authority. He is chief surgeon of King's College Hospital, in London, England, and is attending the British Medical Association meeting in Winnipeg.

There is one time when previously harmless stages of growths are likely to become cancer rather suddenly. This is in the same relative period of life for both men and animals.

"It suggests," Sir George said, "that either some fresh, as yet unknown factor or agent may enter the body just at the critical time and cause cancer, or that the different parts of the whole cycle for a continuous process, and one part passes naturally from one stage to the final catastrophe of cancer."

"The first stage is most prevalent from the late twenties to the thirties, the second stage takes form in the late thirties and early forties. The change into cancer occurs in the late forties and early fifties of life."

Guard Baby's Health in the Summer

The summer months are the most dangerous to children. The complaints of that season, which are cholera infantum, colic, diarrhoea and dysentery, come on so quickly that often a little one is beyond aid before the mother realizes he is ill. The mother must be on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they do come on suddenly to banish them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during hot weather as Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the stomach and bowels and are absolutely safe. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Add a little sugar to it to make it palatable. It will allay the irritation and prevent the ulceration and swelling that are so painful. Those who were periodically subject to quinsy have thus made themselves immune to attack.

Saskatoon's Growth

Approximately 10,000 names will be added to the voters' list in Saskatoon riding, figures compiled by enumerators reveal. The total will likely be in the neighborhood of 29,000. The urban polls are expected to mount from 13,335 in 1926, to about 22,000 this year, indicating the substantial growth in Saskatoon's population.

"It's a funny use to make of it," commented Dr. C. H. Best, co-discoverer of insulin with Dr. F. G. Banting, on the report that the London Society for the Study of Inebriety is using insulin for the treatment of delirium tremens. Dr. Best explained that an overdose of insulin is equivalent to an overdose of alcohol.

Importance Of Rubber Industry

Canadian Rubber Products Exported To Many Countries

Now-a-days the world moves on rubber, and this does not apply to automobiles alone. According to a recent return of the Canadian Government the people of Nigeria, in June, bought 300 pairs of shoes with rubber soles from Canada. Barbados took 3,020 pairs and Trinidad 6,555 pairs.

Although Canada is not a producer of raw rubber, the rubber industry is of much importance and rubber products are exported to many countries of the world. In June the export of Canadian automobile tires exceeded $1,000,000. The largest buyers were New Zealand, British South Africa, Belgium, Argentine and Brazil.

Mr. Alexander made the announcement in reply to a question about how much naval costs had been reduced since the present government took office.

The correspondent says the women adopted a resolution calling for abolition of the veil; for permitting brides and bridegrooms to see each other before marriage; for making divorce possible to women equally with men; for making 18 years the legal minimum age for marriage, and for compulsory education of children of both sexes.

Western Homesteads Can Be Beautified by Planting Flowering Shrubs About House and Yard

Far too many homesteads lack the finished effect that may be obtained by planting a few flowering shrubs about the house and yard. Without shrubs there is nothing to fill the angles formed by paths or fences, or to screen unsightly objects; nothing to soften the abrupt angles formed by the corners of the building or where the foundation meets the ground; nothing to take away the bare appearance of the home and to give it an air of permanency and cosiness.

The majority of people appreciate the beauty of shrubbery, and realize how much improvement can be brought about by its use, but for various reasons many fail to do any planting. The chief reasons for this neglect are probably the cost of planting material and a lack of knowledge as to what to plant. If all the planting material is bought at one time, the cost is in many cases prohibitive, and, if the work is to be done well, the labor involved will be considerable. For this reason it is never wise to attempt to do a great deal in any one year. A little planting done each year and done well will bring surprising results in a short time. The cost of many beautiful flowering shrubs is small; and everyone can afford to buy at least one or two each year. Some cannot be propagated easily by the amateur and therefore have to be purchased from a nurseryman. Others are very easily propagated, and, when one specimen has been bought, it may easily be increased to supply all of that species that will be required.

Many rules for the arrangement of planting material have been given by experts from time to time. These frequently involve a large outlay and considerable study, but, while they may lead to wonderful results, they also have the effect of discouraging those who are able to do only a small amount of planting. This should not deter anyone from making a start. The greatest amount of pleasure will be found in arranging the shrubs to suit one's individual taste. If, after a time one sees where an improvement could be made, the shrubs may easily be transplanted and rearranged.

There are a few simple rules which may help one to avoid common mistakes. Do not plant the shrubs too close to the foundation of the house, but picture them as they may be ten or twelve years after planting, and allow them plenty of room to develop a symmetrical shape. If the earth is poor and consists chiefly of sub-soil thrown out from the cellar, dig a hole about three feet in diameter and about twenty inches deep, fill it with good earth from the garden or yard, work in some well-rotted manure as the clay is filled in, and pack the clay firmly while filling. Then plant the shrub in the centre being careful not to have manure coming in direct contact with the roots. Cultivate the surface occasionally for at least for the first two or three years, or till the shrub is firmly established and has made considerable growth. When planting shrubs in a shady position, be careful to choose species that do well in the shade. Whenever possible visit the nearest Experimental Station during the growing season. This will assist in making a choice of varieties. Send for the nurserymen's catalogues and study them. They contain many valuable suggestions.

Wealth From Forests

Canada Is the Chief Source Of the World's Paper Supply

The forests of Canada continue to be the chief source of the world's paper supply. During the past month Canadian paper has been exported to 33 countries, ranging through the alphabet right from Australia to Uruguay. Without the forests and paper mills of Canada the business of supplying the world's news to the public would be seriously restricted. Canada is becoming as famous for her paper as for her wheat.

Paper and wheat are more closely related than appears on the surface. Much of Canada's forested area is potentially good farming country, and as the forests are removed for the manufacture of paper the land goes under the plough and is devoted to agricultural production. Forests, in such cases, are a source of income to the new settler, who receives cash for his pulpwood while clearing it off his land.

While Canada's principal export of paper is for printing purposes there is an interesting variety of other paper products. Wrapping paper, writing paper and wall paper are exported to many countries, and in June more than a million pounds of paper wall boards for building purposes were exported to the United Kingdom alone.

Problems For the Farmer

Low Wheat Prices Create a Difficult Situation For the Grain Grower

With another wheat crop coming along and a large surplus still on hand from the previous crop, the situation is far from cheerful. Everybody in an agricultural country such as Canada has a stake in the state of the farming industry, yet it will be conceded that the problem rests more heavily on the shoulders of the actual producer than on anyone else.

Difficulty is met in predicting the probable curve of wheat prices for the reason that a year of small yields over any large section of the world's wheat growing areas would be almost certain to lead to an advance in price that would make wheat growing look like a remunerative business to the producers who happened to have wheat for sale. At the same time there is a fairly widespread opinion that wheat prices are likely to remain at a lower level than has been the case during the last seven or eight years. This would indicate that the world is producing all the wheat that the world can afford to buy and that the surpluses are responsible for the sharp break in prices.

Will it benefit Canadian farmers to grow less wheat under the circumstances? If the wheat acreage is reduced, what is to take its place? Is there any guarantee that the other wheat growing countries in the world will reduce their acreage? Can the lands of Western Canada be turned to some other form of farming that will be profitable? Can a change in farm methods make it possible for the Western Canadian farmer to grow wheat at a profit even when the price is low?

In the last analysis it appears to be the job of the farmer to suggest means for solving his own problem. If he is the victim of exploitation this should be made known. If his methods are wrong they should be possible for correction. We have many successful farmers in Western Canada who should be able to throw some light on the problems that confront the country's basic industry.—Regina Leader-Post.

Mining In British Columbia

Increases Quantity Production In the Aggregate Of Metals

Despite world-wide depression in the mining industry, following the drop in metal prices, mining in British Columbia during the first half of the year has shown encouraging progress, according to the semi-annual summary of the British Columbia Department of Mines.

There was increased quantity production in the aggregate of mineral and metals, but owing to low metal prices, the gross value dropped from $34,122,722 in the first half of 1929 to the estimated $29,909,487 for the first half of 1930, a decline of more than 12 per cent. Among the unfavorable features are included the rather uncertain outlook for any material movement in silver and zinc prices for some time to come, which may cause certain hitherto productive mines in British Columbia to remain closed indefinitely. Coal production also fell away 18 per cent.

Scientists have now produced an artificial silk from water and carbon dioxide gas.

Surplus Of Wheat Is A World Condition And Not Restricted To Canada Alone

Successful Field Day

Manitoba Wheat Pool Sponsors Gathering At Brandon Experimental Farm

About 300 people from thirty-three points adjacent were represented at the successful field day arranged by the Manitoba wheat pool and held at the Experimental Farm at Brandon. E. J. Watson, local field man for the wheat pool, had charge of the arrangements.

The horticultural work being done at the farm under the direction of J. H. Cooper, was viewed by the visitors. Guided by S. J. Sigfusson, they then inspected the cereal plots where Mr. Sigfusson drew attention to the treatment of summerfallow, comparing plowing summerfallow with the use of the cultivator only. They also visited the cereal breeding plots.

The advantage of plowing under sweet clover as a means of soil enrichment instead of plowing under grasses was evident when the party accompanied Dr. Buckley to view plots where crops were flourishing where land had been so treated. Prof. Harrison explained how to select wheat for seed plots for registered seed or exhibition work. Adjournment was made to the tent where these problems were discussed further.

Mr. Mahoney, of the Wheat Pool, acted as chairman.

While the men were touring the grain plots the women were shown the results of poultry feeding tests with cod liver oil and grain mixtures. R. M. Hopper gave a demonstration of the best ways to cull poultry.

Food Preservative

Scientists Isolate Natural Agent In Milk Which Prevents Growth Of Micro-Organisms

A successful, non-poisonous food preservative may be obtained from cow's milk as a result of recent investigations reported by Drs. F. S. Jones and H. S. Simms of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

These scientists were able to isolate the natural agent in milk which prevents the growth of micro-organisms. It is found in the whey after the routine separation of the butter-fat and casein. It can be obtained in pure form in a powder which keeps for several months. One grain of the powder added to a gallon of the ordinary medium on which germs grow will prevent their growth, it is reported.

Bounty On Coyotes

Payment of a bounty on coyotes, for which the farmers of British Columbia, especially the sheep men, have been agitating since the bounty was abolished last year, will be resumed under a recent order-in-council. The Department of Agriculture will pay the bounty at the former rate, viz $7.50 for coyotes, $15 on wolves, and $40 on cougars. Trained hunters may also be used to kill off predatory animals when necessary.

Many people these days are disposed to criticize the Canadian Wheat Pool for the large quantity of wheat that will be carried over in this country into the new crop year, says the Monetary Times. Fair-minded people, however, will temper their criticisms somewhat when they become conversant with the fact that the surplus of wheat is a world condition and not restricted to Canada alone. Some weeks ago attention was directed in these columns to the fact that in the United States the situation was recognized as so important that the Department of Agriculture at Washington, got out a survey of the world situation, and suggested that a reduction of acreage by the American wheat farmer in conjunction with a study of his costs would be the desirable course. The fact that the United States Government takes such action recalls in a measure the uproar which was caused by the British policy of rubber plant restriction a year or two ago.

In the years since the war the acreage sown to wheat has shown a steady increase all over the world and with supplies increasing at a rate faster than the consumption it was inevitable that a surplus should be created. Just how this is to be absorbed in the next few years, short of a total crop failure, constitutes a problem.

The Orient is generally indicated as the most likely part of the world to increase its consumption of wheat. The rice-eating people of the East are gradually becoming wheat consumers to a greater extent. This has been due, no doubt, to a variety of reasons, one of which may doubtless be traced to the large numbers of Chinese laborers employed during the great war in France. Many who saw service in France will remember the Chinese labor battalions eating their midday meal by the roadside, boiling what looked like big dumplings of dough made from wheat flour. Moreover, as has been noted previously, experiments with school children in Japan and the Philippines have demonstrated the advantage of adding wheat to the diet.

However, in the meantime, new areas of the Canadian West have been opened up from year to year and more land brought under the plow while South America and Australia have also tended in the same direction and supply has increased faster than demand. Whatever fault may be found with the Pool for its method of trading, they are not altogether to blame for the fact that Canada will have a large wheat surplus.

Central Heating Plan

Central Heating Plants In Winnipeg Are Being Extended

In Winnipeg "central heating" does not mean a furnace in the basement of each house—it means a large central plant from which the heat is piped to many blocks of business buildings and residences. This principle of heating is not a new thing in Winnipeg, where it was first established in 1924. The municipal steam-electric plant which was required as a stand-by for electric power was utilized to provide heat which was piped through a certain area of the downtown part of the city. Electric boilers were installed and power developed on the Winnipeg River was used for the production of heat when not required for other purposes. The scheme proved a success and has since been extended. A private company is now entering the field with a $2,000,000 steam-heating plant in another section of the city.

"ROUND A CANADIAN CAMP FIRE"

On the terrace of the Banff Springs Hotel recently the above-named ballad opera was presented by the Alfred Heather Light Opera Company, now giving a two-month season of Canadian and Old English ballad operas at the hotel. Tepee, log fire, cordwood seats and even a portable organ were among the props and hundreds of guests were shown what an evening camp and sing-song are like. The Opera Company was assisted by Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies seen clustered around the fire. The scene will live long in the memories of those who witnessed it.

THE SCHOOL BELL RINGS

Youth is on the march again—back to school. The world and his wife smile kindly at the schoolboy "with his satchel and shining morning face," and note that in these happy days of to-day, they no longer "creep like snail unwillingly to school." Why indeed should they, when our schools are such delightful places, and learning is made so attractive. The day of Schoolmaster Squeers is over and done with, and in his stead we have the modern teacher who has studied all the science and art of education, from the way to teach the alphabet to the latest development in the new intelligence tests.

On one thing teachers and parents are in agreement, and that is that the physical condition of the pupil must be 100 per cent efficient if the best work is to be done at school. Sick and ailing children make poor scholars, besides being a positive menace to the rest of the class. School inspection is of the prime importance and the wise mother welcomes the sight of the school nurse, even though it means that Johnny must have his tonsils removed when the Clinic travels that way, or Mary has to wear glasses.

We cannot stress too much the vital importance of health knowledge in the house, and in this new Canada of the far hinterlands it is frequently the children from the little school house who bring home to their parents the newer teachings of Junior Red Cross. This gospel is one of keeping well and fit by attention to the rules of health. Many instances are known of girls and boys giving lessons to their homes in the art of personal hygiene, for it is in the doing that health comes, and knowledge is only of value as it is applied. It is useless to teach health rules at school unless there is an active co-operation at home. Let every parent insist on a Junior Red Cross group in the school, thereby assuring a valuable education in health, citizenship and service.

Town Planning In Alberta

Being a Series of Short Articles Explanatory of the provisions of The Alberta Town Planning Act And Regulations thereunder.

Article 1.—Introduction.

The Alberta Town Planning Act has been in operation for over a year, and inquiries are received as to the principles of Town Planning, but particularly as to the operations of the Act or regulations thereunder. It is also evident that many are not aware of some of the provisions of the Town Planning Act, or if aware, do not appreciate their value or significance.

Something has been accomplished through public meetings and correspondence, but there seems to be a field in the further dissemination of town planning knowledge that can best be covered by the newspaper and these short articles to appear from time to time are prepared for that purpose.

The meaning of Town Planning most briefly defined as "community foresight" can best be described as the orderly treatment or arrangement of land and buildings, both in town and country so that economy, convenience, health and well-being may be secured, out of which may also arise community attractiveness, individual happiness. The carrying out of such a program of development may take some years but brings rich reward to the individual and to the community.

What Town Planning is meaning Alberta is probably best explained by brief descriptions of some of the provisions of the Town Planning Act and regulations and this is the object of succeeding short articles.

Activity Out West

The peaceful region of Coal Camp is on the threshold of being disturbed and the woodland scene undergoing a change, to which will be added a touch of commercial activity. The preliminary change in the picturesque setting will take place this week-end, when the firm of Campbell, Hunter and McLaren will commence gouging out a path around the bank to open up a gateway for the transportation of oil-drilling machinery, which contract has been entrusted to our townsman, Hoogan Peterson. The next coloring to the picture will be the erection of camp-houses, under instructions of the Cartier Oil Company, on a site three miles distant of Coal Camp. Then follows the erection of the derrick, the spudding-in ceremony, and the descent into the bowels of the earth in search of oil in the crude form, which if discovered in nature of a gusher, will bring fame to Coal Camp by the rush of oil magnates of the world and fortune to many local business men. We hope to omit the above word of only two letters ("it") to start things humming by next spring.—Oids Gazette.

BEARS NOT COVERED IN GOLF RULES

Golf in the Canadian Rockies involves natural hazards for which provision is apparently lacking in the standard rules of St. Andrews. A short while ago, Miss Evelyn Hay, of Toronto, had her game interrupted while three black bears wrestled for possession of her ball on the first fairway of the Jasper Park Lodge course. They left it finally, deeply pitted with teeth marks, 15 feet nearer the green than it was at the end of her drive. She continued her game with a new ball.

Playing a match game on the same course late in the evening, A. S. C. Proctor and W. Ross Gooderham, both of Toronto, were even at the finish of their 17th hole. The light was beginning to fade as Mr. Proctor drove down the last fairway towards the home green and the clubhouse. Mr. Gooderham followed. Out of the shadowy pine forest lining the course Mr. Proctor saw a black bear emerge, walk resolutely to his ball and sit calmly down upon it as though this was the occasion for which he had waited all day. Mr. Proctor approached, waved his club and said

"Woof, Woof." Mr. Gooderham, closed by on the edge of the course, made faces and a noise like a park warden with a rifle and felonious intent. The four-footed intruder held his place and his peace, gazing with a mild eye upon Pyramid Mountain where the last golden rays of the sun were caught. The game was called off. In the deep twilight, the bear and the ball vanished. The players, who had settled upon this game to decide their golfing differences, did not know whether the game should go to Mr. Gooderham because Mr. Proctor failed to complete his hole, or whether the latter should have an opportunity to make the play again with a new ball. The regulations of the Jasper Park Lodge course do not cover the contingency.

Forty-three years ago May 24 last, the first transcontinental passenger train reached Vancouver over the Canadian Pacific Railway, leaving again next day. That was eleven months after the arrival of the first through passenger train at Port Moody, original terminus of the transcontinental line.

"Judging from present indications, there is every reason to believe that the tourist traffic from the United States and from other Canadian provinces to the Maritimes will reach record proportions this season," says George S. Beer, recently appointed district passenger agent for the Canadian Pacific Railway at Saint John, N.B.

Canadian Pacific Steamships Aid R-100

On her historic voyage across the Atlantic to Montreal, the mighty British dirigible, R-100, was in continual wireless touch with ships of the Canadian Pacific trans-Atlantic fleet. The great air liner was hardly out above the ocean when she was in communication with S.S. "Montclare," then approaching the British Isles and some distance farther she overtook the Montcalm. S.S. "Empress of France" was her next call as that ship was nearing Newfoundland, while down the St. Lawrence she spoke with the "Duchess of York," the "Empress of Scotland" and the "Duchess of Bedford." Eighteen other C.P.R. vessels were lying during her flight at British or Canadian ports. Thus the great Canadian transportation company was enabled to give a waiting world the latest particulars of her flight, since all these vessels are in wireless communication with the shore and their messages were broadcast through the press and featured in all R-100 news items.

Nationalize Coal Mines

Drastic Steps In British Coal Mining Industry Are Planned

Rt. Hon. William Graham, President of the Board of Trade, in a speech at Durham, England, said the recently passed coal bill was a Parliamentary step along the road which the British Government intended to follow until the great collieries were the property of the people. His audience, composed largely of farmers, welcomed the sentiments expressed. "We are pledged as a Government to nationalize the mining royalties, and we hope the time will be found in the next session for that bill," Mr. Graham said.

Grape Juice Duty

Special Tariff Item Designed To Meet Foreign Competition

A special issue of the Canada Gazette announces that an order-in-council has been passed bringing into effect the special tariff item designed to meet foreign competition in concentrated grape juice. Grape juice previously was all under one duty. The new duty provides a tariff of 25 cents a gallon with an addition of three cents a gallon for each .01 increase in specific gravity above 1.074. It comes into immediate effect.

(By Annebelle Worthington).

A printed crepe silk shows how smart it can be in straight silhouette with low-flared fullness.

The pointed outline of the hip yoke and the circular skirt flounce, produce a particularly slenderizing effect.

The neckline is interesting in cool open V-shape. The rolled collar and jabot of plain crepe match the background of the print.

The short sleeves with elbow flare are very smart.

Style No. 2574 can be had in sizes 14, 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

It's very pretty in printed chiffon voile that will give such excellent service.

Shantung, flat crepe silk, pastel sheer linen and printed batiste are fashionable fabrics for its development.

Claims Matter Is Weightless

Scientist Gives New Definition Of Weight and Force Of Energy

After delving into philosophical questions as a hobby from a very early age, W. Donald Mitchell, under the nom de plume of "Logus Philotus," has published "The Great Light of Relativity."

In his work, Mr. Mitchell, who was born in Pembroke, Ontario, of Scottish parentage, claims to reveal that, "the earth does not weigh so much as one ounce, that matter is weightless," and gives a new definition of weight, and also of the force of energy. He claims to reverse Newton's equation of attraction, and Einstein's space-time-energy theory. He gives other concepts of philosophy in axiomatic form, chief of which seems to be his statement that, "knowledge, or intelligence, is the relative, transient, personal and material reflex from objects and elements of external reality, partially retained in memory—in or on the negative plates or cells of the brain."

The author of this remarkable work believes himself to have made the most remarkable discoveries in recent generations, and thereby set a new standard for philosophy, metaphysics, psychology, and thus also education. "It promises to affect the entire scientific thought of the age," he says. He makes no declaration dogmatically, but states: "I shall be delighted to receive, either personally or otherwise, any criticism for or against any statement, axiom or definition, appearing herein, for the spirit of progress is formed in criticism and unbiased investigation."

The Peking Man

Canadian Scientist Has New Theory Regarding Discovery In China

The "Peking Man" was really an adolescent girl, who lived possibly 1,000,000 years ago, Dr. Davidson Black, Canadian scientist, said, in announcing the discovery of a second ancient skull.

The noted paleontologist, who dug up the skull of the "Peking Man" some months ago, said he had found the second cranium embedded in the rock of the same cave in which he found the first skull.

The second is that of an adolescent male, Dr. Black said, and the measurements further indicated the first skull was that of a girl.

Four Doses Relieved Bad Attack of Cholera

Mr. W. J. Cooper, Maughan, Alta., writes:—"A year ago last spring I arrived in Canada with my family, and one of my boys, aged six, was suffering very much with cholera. When we arrived I had a few hours to wait, and told one of the attendants at the station about it, and he asked me if I had ever tried Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I had never heard of it in England, so he told me I could get it in Winnipeg. I am pleased to say I had only to give the child four doses and he got well and was quite cheerful by the next morning."

Colorful Scenes At Indian Treaty

Week Of Fun At Nelson House Trading Post

The picturesque Cree Indian reserve and trading post at Nelson House was the scene of a colorful carnival recently upon the occasion of the annual visit of the treaty party. Native dances and modern sports vied with each other on the spacious common at this beauty spot on the Burntwood River in Northern Manitoba. Football games and a beauty contest were outstanding features of the week of fun.

Nelson House, which is reached by canoe trails from either Mile 137, Mile 185, or Mile 279, on the Hudson Bay Railway, is one of the oldest trading posts in the Manitoba hinterland.

The treaty party travelled in two canoes and was in charge of W. G. Tweddell, Indian Agent in charge of this territory. Other members of the party included Arch. Richardson, assistant to Mr. Tweddell; Dr. R. W. B. Wengal, of Winnipeg, and Sergt. J. Nelson, of the R.C.M.P. The Pas, besides Indian guides. G. W. Jones, of the provincial game department, was also at Nelson House during treaty time.

Indians had assembled from all over the Nelson House area for the gala event, and they established a veritable tented city at the trading post. About 425 natives received their annual payment of five dollars a head from the Federal Government.

Pussy Willow Thornton, an aristocratic bulldog, has a telephone listed in her own name, it was revealed in Chicago. A few lines above Pussy Willow's name will be found the name of Mrs. B. Thornton, the dog's mistress. Mrs. Thornton's theory is that animals are as human as people and therefore have a right to be listed in the telephone directory.

Mediterranean Service

Inauguration Of A New Monthly Service From Canada

Inaugurating the new monthly service from eastern Canadian ports to Gibraltar, Malta, and other Mediterranean ports, the "David Livingstone" will sail from Montreal on or about September 10. This will be followed about October 10 by the S.S. Benguela.

The new service, according to the Department of Trade and Commerce, will consist of special motorships, equipped for cargo and accommodation for 10 or 12 passengers. Owing to the absence of a direct steamship service between these ports, and Montreal or Halifax, Canada has not been able to share in these markets to any extent in the past.

CHAPTER XXIV.—Continued.

So, alone at the window, Grandma watched her old friend carried by to his last resting place, followed, it seemed to her, by all those to whom he had ever ministered. Wickfield's elite in shining automobiles; shabby flivvers from the country with sad faces peering from behind torn side-curtains; farm horses harnessed to well loaded carry-alls or buggies; a long, long line on foot following the others. And last, straggling behind them all, hurrying breathlessly, a woman trundling a baby in a dilapidated go-cart—a baby whom the old doctor had helped into the world only a few months before. . . . Yes, all Wickfield was there, thought Grandma. . . . No one had forgotten.

"And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes," she murmured softly. "And there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying."

CHAPTER XXV.

April, month of laughter and tears, had come and gone. Spring was "early," according to the old inhabitants and weather prophets. With May the red had left the maples, lilacs were a purple glory, and wee pink buds adorned the orchards.

"What a thrilling, beautiful world it is!" mused Charmian, as she walked home from school one afternoon. It's a crime not to feel light-hearted every minute. I believe I should if it wasn't that John is leaving us. Grandma will miss him terribly; and so will I."

Yes, in another week the little office would be closed again, and the ell bedroom crying for an occupant. John Carter had stayed until a furnace fire was no longer necessary. On that he had insisted. He had been surprised and infinitely touched when Gam Garfield told him that all the doctor's worldly goods were now his own.

"He was quite bowled over," the little lawyer said to Grandma. "He hadn't the least suspicion of what was in the doctor's will."

"Did Edward leave him everything?" she queried.

"About everything there was—the house and furnishings. All bills were to be settled (there weren't any to speak of), and any unpaid accounts on his books were to be cancelled. Two hundred dollars to Charmian, 'for a keepsake,' and the rest to John Carter. Yes, the young man was bowled over. Not a great legacy, but it showed that our old doctor loved and trusted him. And of course we all know how he loved Charmian. Wickfield will never be the same without him, will it, Grandma?"

Grandma sighed and answered: "Not to some of us; and yet, Gam, it's a wonderful thing to live a long life and then die in the harness before you get to be a burden, as Edward Howe did. I couldn't wish him back. Just look at me!" she said, exasperated. "Here I sit all day long just watching the passing—don't even get out of my chair when some one comes in for a spool of cotton—no earthly use except to keep Charmian company, or—"

"No use!" exploded Gamaliel indignantly. "I donno any one 'round Wickfield who's any more use! You've listened to and sympathized with all our troubles for twenty years, Grandma Davis, to say nothing of all the years before when you were always ready to lend a helping hand in time of trouble. Many's the time I've heard my father say, 'Polly Davis is a good friend.' And you're a good friend still. I haven't got one I value any more, and there's mink a Wickfielder who'd say the same."

"You're a good friend, too, Gam," smiled the old lady, patting his hand affectionately. "I'll never forget how you persuaded Deacon Purdie to give up that law suit, just so's I wouldn't get into trouble about those beads. There's times when I get thinking over that transaction, that I'm the least mite worried."

The lawyer grinned.

"You can rest easy if that's the worst sin you're got on your conscience! Once I bought a horse of the deacon—ought to have known better, of course; but I was a young sprig then and thought I knew the world—likewise a horse. But I was mistaken in both cases. I wouldn't worry about those beads, Grandma. Well, I must trot along. I wanted to see Charmian and tell her she'd fallen heir to a legacy, but you can break the news instead. What'll she do with it, do you think?"

Grandma's face clouded as she replied: "Most likely she'll shingle the roof, and fix the leaks in the back hall. I wish we were more common-sensible, Charmian and I. But there! 'twould break our hearts to leave it, so what's the use? And if Charmian wants to use the doctor's legacy to keep us here a little longer, I'm sure Edward Howe would be the last one to think her foolish."

It was on this very subject that Charmian was meditating that May afternoon as she walked home from school.

"It's too lovely a day to spoil with worry," she told herself, "and I've got to face things sometime. It's not just John himself that we're going to miss, but the money he pays for board and rent. Summer's coming, and we can weather that, thanks to the dear old doctor for helping me to do some of the repairs; but next fall—Well, 'sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.' I won't worry—yet. Somehow this day makes me think of Jim. He was rather inarticulate about it, but he said once when he was a little boy, that the smell of apple blossoms made him feel 'funny all over,' and it's my private opinion that it has the same effect on him now. I wonder if May is half as lovely in California as it is in Wickfield. I'm inclined to doubt it. I wonder if Jim is ever coming back—even for a visit. I wonder."

A sharp rap on a window pane informed the girl that she was passing her own front door. She looked up, laughing, and said as she went in to Grandma: "I was in a trance. I'd have walked into a river if there'd been one handy. It's such a beautiful day, Grandma, that I got to dreaming. What's been happening to you?"

"Not much, childy. The doctor couldn't stop to do the dishes, but Lizzie Baker found 'em in the sink when she came after some flour, and did 'em up. She forgot to rinse out the dish towel, but she was real kind to help anyway, and I told her not to return the flour—it was only half a cupful. She's had another letter from Sarah Bennett, and what do you think has happened? That Darling girl, the one that set Wickfield on end with her green hat, has been out to California on a trip with a girl friend. They stopped to call, and Sophie invited 'em to stay a day or so. Jim's been escorting 'em around, showing 'em the sights, and I guess he's been too busy to write to you. My stars! that reminds me a letter came this morning. I was crazy to open it, but that's one crime I've never committed—opening other folks' mail. If a letter isn't private, I'd like to know what is."

"You could have opened it, of course, Grandma," said Charmian, bringing the letter and seating herself in the old rocker. "Jim wouldn't say anything you couldn't see. I'll read it aloud: 'Dear—' " Charmian paused, then looked up at her grandmother with a puzzled frown. "He says, 'Dear playmate.' He never called me that before."

"You've been playmates all your lives, haven't you?" replied Grandma literally. "I think he just means to be friendly."

"Friendly!" echoed Charmian. "Well, I guess you're right, Grandma, as usual." Her voice was the least bit hard, and the color had sprung into her face. It was still there when she finished reading. "He's evidently enjoying the fair Clara's visit," she said coldly. "And he's got the California fever, too. I wonder if he's forgotten a New England spring."

He doesn't say a single word about coming back. Well, if Jim Bennett wants to spend his life in a stucco bungalow with a palm tree for shade, he's welcome."

She tossed the letter onto the table contemptuously and went upstairs, while the old lady's eyes followed her retreating figure with a blending of amusement and distress.

"I donno what's in that letter to upset her so," she mused; then reached for the despised missive and read it through. "Charmian," she called when she heard the girl's step upon the stairs, "come here. I guess maybe you overlooked Jim's postscript."

"Postscript?" said Charmian, a note of hope in her voice, though her eyes were cold. "Well, what is it?"

"Here," said Grandma, and handed the letter to her irate granddaughter, who, going closer to the window, read:

"Charmian, when our old crab-apple tree is white with blossom, will you pick an armful and carry them to the cemetery for Doctor Howe? He told me once that something about those blossoms always reminded him of his Kate—they were so pure and exquisite; and after that I took him a big bunch each spring—used to put 'em in a bowl on the desk in his office, where he'd find them when he came in. I don't want him to miss them now; and you're the only one I can ask who would understand. You do, don't you? Jim."

"Well," said Grandma, as the girl's hand, holding the letter, dropped limply to her side. "I donno but I'd rather a boy would think of doing a thing like that, than to have him appreciate small-paned windows. I donno but—"

She paused, looked up, and her lips broke into a knowing smile. She was talking to an empty room!

Italy and Volcanoes

Italian Peninsula Subject To Frequent Seismic Disturbances

Another earthquake has visited Southern Italy, destroying towns and leaving several hundred dead in its wake. The disaster is not so severe as others which have occurred in this area, but it is none the less a blow to those whose homes have been destroyed, or who have been bereft of kin and friends.

The lower portion of the Italian peninsula is of volcanic origin and subject to frequent seismic disturbances, but no part of the country is exempt. Last year the City of Bologna, in the north, experienced twenty-two earthquakes in a single month. Rome was badly shaken about two and a half years ago. No serious damage resulted in these instances, but in March, 1928, a number lost their lives in a disturbance of unusual violence in Lombardy. No recent earthquake, however, compares with that of Dec. 28, 1903, which virtually destroyed the important City of Messina and many towns in Sicily and Calabria (the toe of the Italian boot). The number of lives lost in that disaster was officially estimated at over 77,000. Only the Japanese earthquake of 1923, which resulted in approximately 100,000 deaths, compares with it in destructiveness. — New York World.

Will Preserve Historic Objects

Dinosaur Tracks Are Found In Canyon Of Peace River Country

The remains of British Columbia's earliest inhabitants, who died several hundred thousand years ago, are to be preserved by official decree. Under an order-in-council the government declares dinosaur tracks and fossil bones of ichthyosaurus found in the canyon of the Peace River last year to be historic objects. To remove or deface them in any way is a serious offence. These relics, discovered by railway engineers during a survey last summer, are regarded by scientists as highly important since they show the prehistoric monsters of the prairies had penetrated into British Columbia by following the course of the Peace River. No such remains had been found in British Columbia before, though the Alberta foothills are rich in such material.

Sweet and palatable. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is acceptable to children, and it does its work surely and promptly.

Sinking In the Sea

Ireland In Danger Of Disappearing Say Scientists

The Royal Irish Academy, Ireland's most learned body, has been debating the suggestion that Ireland is gradually sinking into the sea.

The marine erosion especially on the East coast has become serious. A learned engineer pointed out that during the past winter at many points there has been a marked lowering of the beach level.

The director of the State's geological survey said this coast depression was not merely local, but part of a depression affecting Western Europe. The land is sinking at present because, while both land and sea are rising, the sea is rising the more rapidly. The sinking is a few centimeters per century.

London Health Records

London expects 1930 to be one of its healthiest years ever known. In the first four months deaths numbered 20,358, a decrease of 12,000 from the same period of 1929. Deaths from influenza decreased from 2,863 to 208. The exceptionally mild winter is given credit for the improvement.

Will Destroy Porpoises

Porpoises have become such pests in the Gulf of St. Lawrence that the Canadian Government recently expended $5,000 for the purchase of an aeroplane, bombs, and the hiring of a pilot to kill off these fish. The porpoises were destroying all marine life in the gulf.

The highest and lowest point in the United States are within 100 miles of each other in southeastern California. Death Valley is 276 feet below sea level and Mt. Whitney is 14,522 feet above.

Wide as our need Thy favors fall; The white wings of the Holy Ghost Stoop seen or unseen o'er the heads of all.

Homing Pigeon Had Stamina

Although Badly Wounded Makes Eple Flight To Home Loft

Making a tough flight from Moose Lake to Cormorant Lake, base of the Royal Canadian Air Force, Mile 42, Hudson Bay Railway, a homing pigeon badly chewed to pieces managed to get to home loft before it collapsed. The bird, along with two others, was in a hamper aboard one of the patrol planes which stopped at Moose Lake. The hamper was removed for a moment, and some husky dogs made a raid on it. They killed two birds and bit through the neck of the third one, which managed to get away. It reached the loft 24 hours afterwards, a flight that should normally take less than an hour. Frank Bradley, pigeonier of the Air Force, sewed up the wounds. The carrier will live.

Restless CHILDREN

CHILDREN will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than a more powerful medicine.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is need. In cases of colic, diarrhea or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. A coated tongue calls for just a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed.

"In view of the fact that this is the last year in which Canada has a seat on the Council of the League of Nations, I could not resist the request made to me by the Prime Minister to represent the Dominion at Geneva," said Sir Robert Laird Borden, former Prime Minister of Canada, as he sailed for Europe recently aboard the Empress of Scotland.

Every activity of the Canadian Pacific Railway was stressed this year at the National Exhibition at Toronto, which was opened formally by E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the road. An outstanding feature of the company's exhibit was the model of the new 42,500-ton Empress of Britain, greatest inter-empire passenger vessel, launched by the Prince of Wales last June and to be in service between Quebec and Great Britain next year.

More than $100,000,000 will be spent in each of the next three years on power production now under development in Canada. Although there are other plans for important building projects none will have a more intimate bearing on the industrial development of Canada than those now contemplated by the power industry.
